

Claire Wingfield's Complete Book Marketing Toolkit is an online course for anyone who would like to create a clear and comprehensive strategy to reach more readers.

Whether you are planning a book launch or want to revive interest and sales figures for one or several books previously launched, this online course will guide you through all the essential areas for your attention.

The course is run by experienced literary consultant Claire Wingfield, who is on hand to guide and support you throughout.

The marketing toolkit can be undertaken at your own pace, and gives you access to a supportive Facebook group upon completion, where Claire will be free to continue to share updates to the course and new ways to sell more books.

The course, including all feedback, usually costs £329, but Claire is offering a £50 discount for participants via Fife Writes using the code FRIEND 50.
